

SENIOR FREELANCE BASKETBALL EDITOR

The Chinese office of the International basketball federation (FIBA) is looking for a senior freelance basketball editor, to join its Communication Department in the lead-up and during the FIBA Basketball World Cup 2019.

He/she will report to FIBA China's Digital Operations Manager.

Key Responsibilities:

- Manage daily operations and ensure smooth cooperation with FIBA Digital Media Partner in China, Tencent Sports
- Manage and ensure proper running and information display on the Chinese version of FIBA Basketball World Cup website
- Create and/or translate content for the Chinese version of FIBA Basketball World Cup website and mobile APP
- Management and content creation for FIBA various Chinese social media channel (Weibo, WeChat, etc)

Experience and skills required:

- 3-5 year of experience managing similar media partnership with leading Chinese Digital Media platform(s)
- 5+ years' experience of editing and managing websites
- Strong international basketball knowledge is a must
- 2-3 years Chinese social media platforms management experience is a strong plus
- Excellent communication and presentation skills
- Serious, reliable and strong attention to details
- Fluent in Chinese and English (spoken/written)
- Able to work in flexible hours and at night
- Able to work during the weekend (occasionally)

Work location:

- Beijing, FIBA China from start until end of July 2019

- Beijing Tencent office from August – Mid-October 2019

Required Languages:

- Native Chinese (oral/written)
- Proficient English (oral/written)

Salary:

- 14K RMB/month
- Freelance

Start/End Date:

- Start Immediately;
- End 1 month after FIBA Basketball World Cup

Please send your CV with a cover letter in both English/Chinese and a recent photograph to ruyang.zhao@fiba.com