WHAT IS 3x3?

HISTORY AND

2010 FIRST EVENT

3x3 had been played in the streets for as long as basketball existed. Under the leadership of the late Patrick Baumann, FIBA's former Secretary General, the organization unified the rules of 3x3 and had a very successful first official event at the 2010 Youth Olympic Games

2011 DIGITAL COMMUNITY

Besides the elite international competitions, the concept behind 3x3 was to develop a mass participation game, including the entire grassroots community. FIBA created a free web app named "3x3 Event Maker" to help organizers create and manage their events, and a free digital platform named play.fiba3x3.basketball where players could find and register to events, which brought them FIBA 3x3 ranking points.

2011 WORLD CUP

FIBA organized the first FIBA 3x3 U18 World Cup in Rimini, Italy in 2011. The first FIBA 3x3 World Cup will come the following year in Athens, Greece.

2012 WORLD TOUR

FIBA went on to launch a professional circuit so that fans can watch 3x3 the entire year and players can win prize money (2.5 million USD in 2019) and specialize in the discipline.

2017 OLYMPIC INCLUSION

After just 7 years of growing the game and building a huge community on social media, the International Olympic Committee announced that 3x3 would be added to the Olympic program as a 2nd discipline of basketball on a permanent basis, starting from the Tokyo Games

2019 WOMEN'S SERIES

The best women in the game get a chance to play 3x3 at the highest level on a regular basis and earn prize money in the women's professional circuit.

2021 TOKYO OLYMPICS

Just 11 years after the first official game, 3x3 makes its debut at the Olympics in the Aomi Urban Park, the exact same location where FIBA played its first 3x3 event in Japan in 2013. The tournament is played with a gender-equal delegation of players, referees and entertainers.

VISION

3x3 (pronounced "three-ex-three" in English) is considered the number one urban team game. From the first official event at the 2010 Youth Olympics Games, FIBA has had an ambitious vision for the game:

UNIVERSAL

3x3 is simple and flexible enough to be played anywhere by anybody. It offers a chance for new countries to find success in basketball: Mongolia and the Netherlands will compete in basketball at the Olympics for the first time ever in Tokyo! All you need is a hoop, a half-court and six players. Events can be staged outdoor and indoor in iconic locations to bring basketball directly to the people.

ENTERTAINING

The rules are very simple and designed to make it a fast, spectacular and exciting game. The non-stop music brings an authentic urban culture atmosphere, which attracts a new young audience to the games.

PROFESSIONAL

3x3 is an opportunity for new players, organizers and countries to go from the streets to the World Stage. The stars of the game play in a professional tour and some of the most prestigious multi-sports events. On June 9, 2017, 3x3 was added to the Olympic Program, starting from the Tokyo 2020 Games.

RULES

Starting from 2010, FIBA came up with a unified set of rules for 3x3, that had several ambitions:

- Make it simple and accessible so that 3x3 could be understood and played anywhere
- Create the fastest team sport or discipline on Earth (we call it “the 10-minute sprint”) to catch the attention and be “snackable”, tailor-made for social media and the way sports fans consume sports in 2021
- Maximize the drama and the cultural side of basketball to break the barrier between entertainment and sport

SIMPLE

1 hoop,
1 half court
2 teams of 3 + 1 sub

FAST

10-minute game
12-second shot-clock
No break after scoring
No half-time
No quarters

ENTERTAINING

Game over at 21 pts
First to 2 pts wins OT
Non-stop music

Rules like the “continuation rule” (no breaks after scoring) have created a completely different game where the frenetic succession of possessions require a different effort and physical preparation. It also generated a game for quick thinkers where players must always anticipate the next possession. The maturity and IQ of the athletes is even more important considering that there are no coaches on the court.

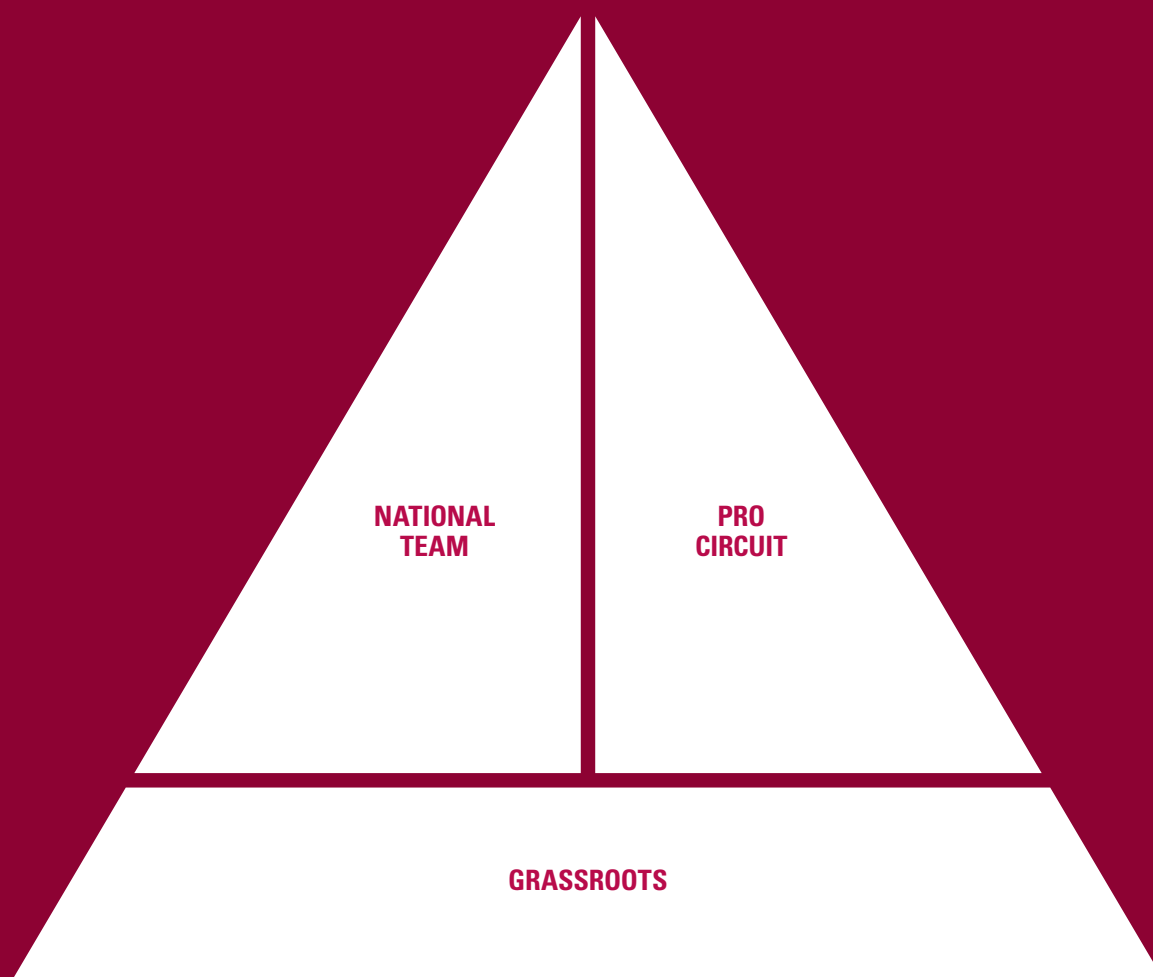

MAIN DIFFERENCES 3x3 vs Basketball

Rule	3x3	Basketball
Hoop	1	2
Court	Half	Full
Players	3-a-side	5-a-side
Ball	3x3	Basketball
Playing time	10'	4 x 10'
Game over	21 PTS	n/a
Shot-clock	12"	24"
Field goals	1 or 2 pts	2 or 3 pts
After scoring	no break	inbound

COMPETITION NETWORK

There are 3 types of competitions in 3x3, organized in a pyramidal system:

- National team competitions played by national federations
- The professional circuit played by teams representing cities for the men and representing countries for the women
- Grassroots amateur events

All those competitions are captured by play.fiba3x3.basketball (FIBA's worldwide digital platform for 3x3 events) and are taken into account for ranking calculation purposes. Competitions are either standalone tournaments or based on a series of tournaments.

NATIONAL TEAM COMPETITIONS

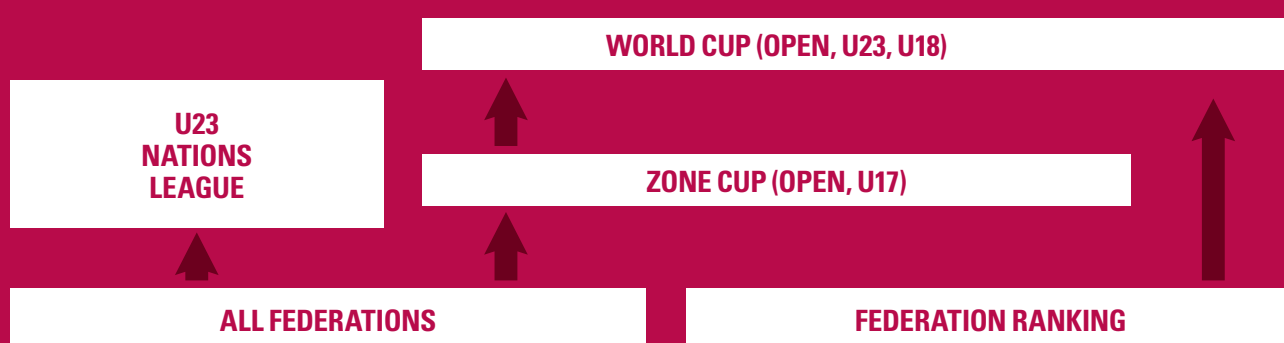

Competitions are played yearly in the following age categories:

- World Cup – Open, U23 and U18
- Zone Cup (Continental Cup) – Open and U17
- Nations League - U23

World Cups have a dual qualification: via federation ranking and Zone Cups (of the previous year).

Nations League and Zone Cups are open to all federations.

- Nations League are played in conferences, with the top teams of each conference qualifying to the Final.
- Zone Cups may have qualifiers depending on the number of registered federations.
- World Cups may have a qualifier, too, in case of interest to host.

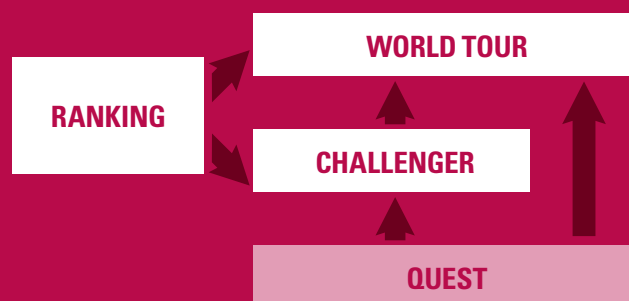

PRO CIRCUIT (MEN)

Simplifying, the professional competition for men is composed of the World Tour and the Challengers. World Tour is made of a certain number of World Tour Masters and one World Tour Final at the season end, to which teams qualify based on the World Tour Masters season standings. Challengers qualify to the World Tour Masters. Both, World Tour and Challengers are FIBA 3x3 Official Competitions and are fed by local qualifiers and the team ranking.

The qualifiers to the pro circuit are called Quests. They are of 3 kinds:

- Quest to Challenger: qualifies one team to a Challenger
- Quest to World Tour: qualifies (in principle) one team to the qualifying draw of a World Tour Masters
- Super Quest: off-season event that qualifies two teams to a World Tour Masters. At least one of these teams qualifies to the main draw directly.

PRO CIRCUIT (WOMEN)

Simplifying, the professional competition for women is composed of a certain number of Women's Series stops and a Women's Series Final at the season end, to which teams qualify based on the season standings after the last stop.

Each Federation is allowed to register 1 team to the Women's Series. Teams are allocated to each tournament based on prior number of allocations and federation ranking.

RANKINGS AND DIGITAL

How many other team sports or disciplines have an individual world ranking? From the 64 Olympians to the entire community of 3x3 players, all people registered with play.fiba3x3.basketball have their own Ranking, which evolves on a daily basis according to results at FIBA-endorsed events. It allows players to compare their skills with friends, local players and pros from all over the globe.

The FIBA 3x3 Individual World Ranking is calculated based on the 9 best results in FIBA-endorsed events played in the last 12 months. The number of points earned by a player at an event depends on:

The event's importance in the competition network (ranking color).

2.

The team's results

3.

The player's individual scoring and key statistical performance (when recorded)

There are in fact 3 types of ranking, which are all calculated daily:

- Individual
- Team
- Federation

The Team Ranking is used at the start of the season to determine which teams preferentially qualify directly to the professional circuit (FIBA 3x3 World Tour and 3x3 Challengers). It is also used at the end of the season to determine the year-end bonus for the top ranked teams.

This ranking is calculated by adding up the FIBA 3x3 Individual World Ranking points of the 3 highest ranked players from each team.

The position in the 3x3 Federation Ranking is driven by the performance of the top players in every country and territory together with the number of players and their playing frequency. The more events are organized the more likely players will accumulate points and increase the standings of their national federation in the ranking.

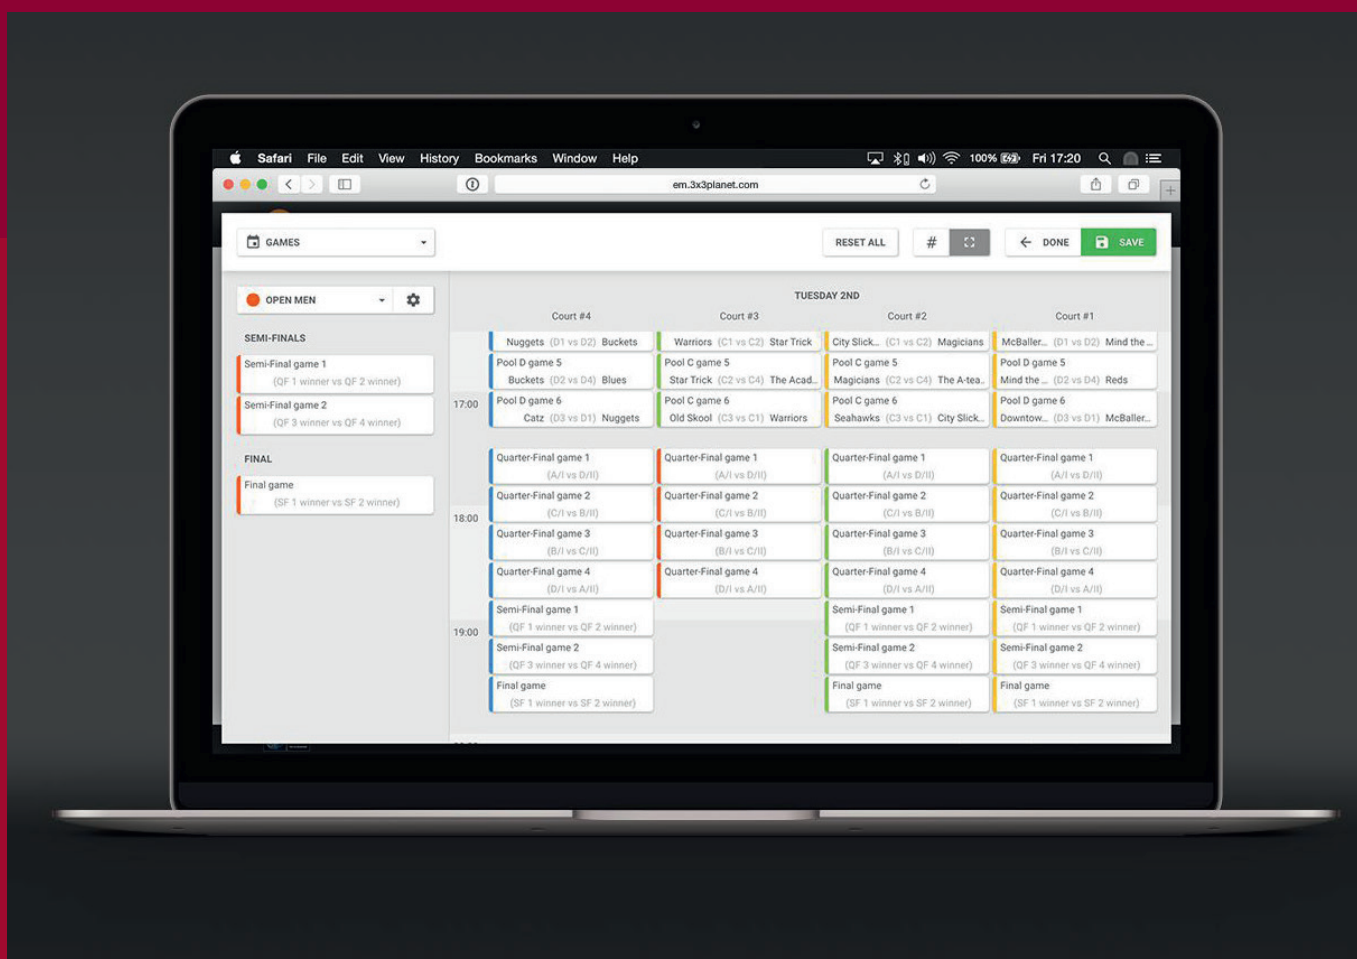

It is the main criterion used to identify the teams qualified to the FIBA 3x3 World Cup and the Olympic Games (open and youth categories).

DIGITAL

We could have written the entire Media Guide on the digital side of 3x3. As mentioned in the History section, besides the elite international competitions, the concept behind 3x3 was to develop a mass participation game, including the entire grassroots community.

In fact, and though it must be said that national basketball federations play a major role in the development of the game, 3x3 is open to everyone and public and private promoters are equally welcome to organize FIBA 3x3-endorsed events and join the competition network

Therefore FIBA has built its own digital ecosystem and made available to all 3x3 event organizers free tools to create, manage and promote their events. It helps run 3x3 events around the world and generates the data required by play.fiba3x3.basketball, including player rankings, performances, game histories and a worldwide database of events.

Whether you want to set up a small 3x3 event at your local school or host a World Tour or a World Cup event, the same web app called 3x3 Event Maker is used. It is currently available in 18 languages (ongoing translations for some languages).

From paid registrations to scheduling and results entries, managing events with Event Maker is easy, fast and fun. You can set up multiple events, create tours, manage registered teams and enter results as they happen.

All events created with 3x3 Event Maker are published to the global platform for all 3x3 basketball - play.fiba3x3.basketball website

The site is focused on getting people to play more 3x3 by offering them a wide range of services.

Players can:

- Check their individualized ranking and analyze their performance
- Access an archive of all games in a cloud repository
- Manage their profile
- Connect with other players
- Find and register to competitions

3x3 AND PARITY

3x3 plays a key role in the promotion of women in basketball, one of the 3 strategic priorities of FIBA for the 2019-2023 cycle.

This is why FIBA will bring a gender-equal crew to the Tokyo Olympics:

- 32 men and 32 women's athletes
- 6 men and 6 women's referees
- 2 men and 2 women's MC's
- 1 man and 1 woman's sport supervisor
- 1 man and 1 woman's DJ

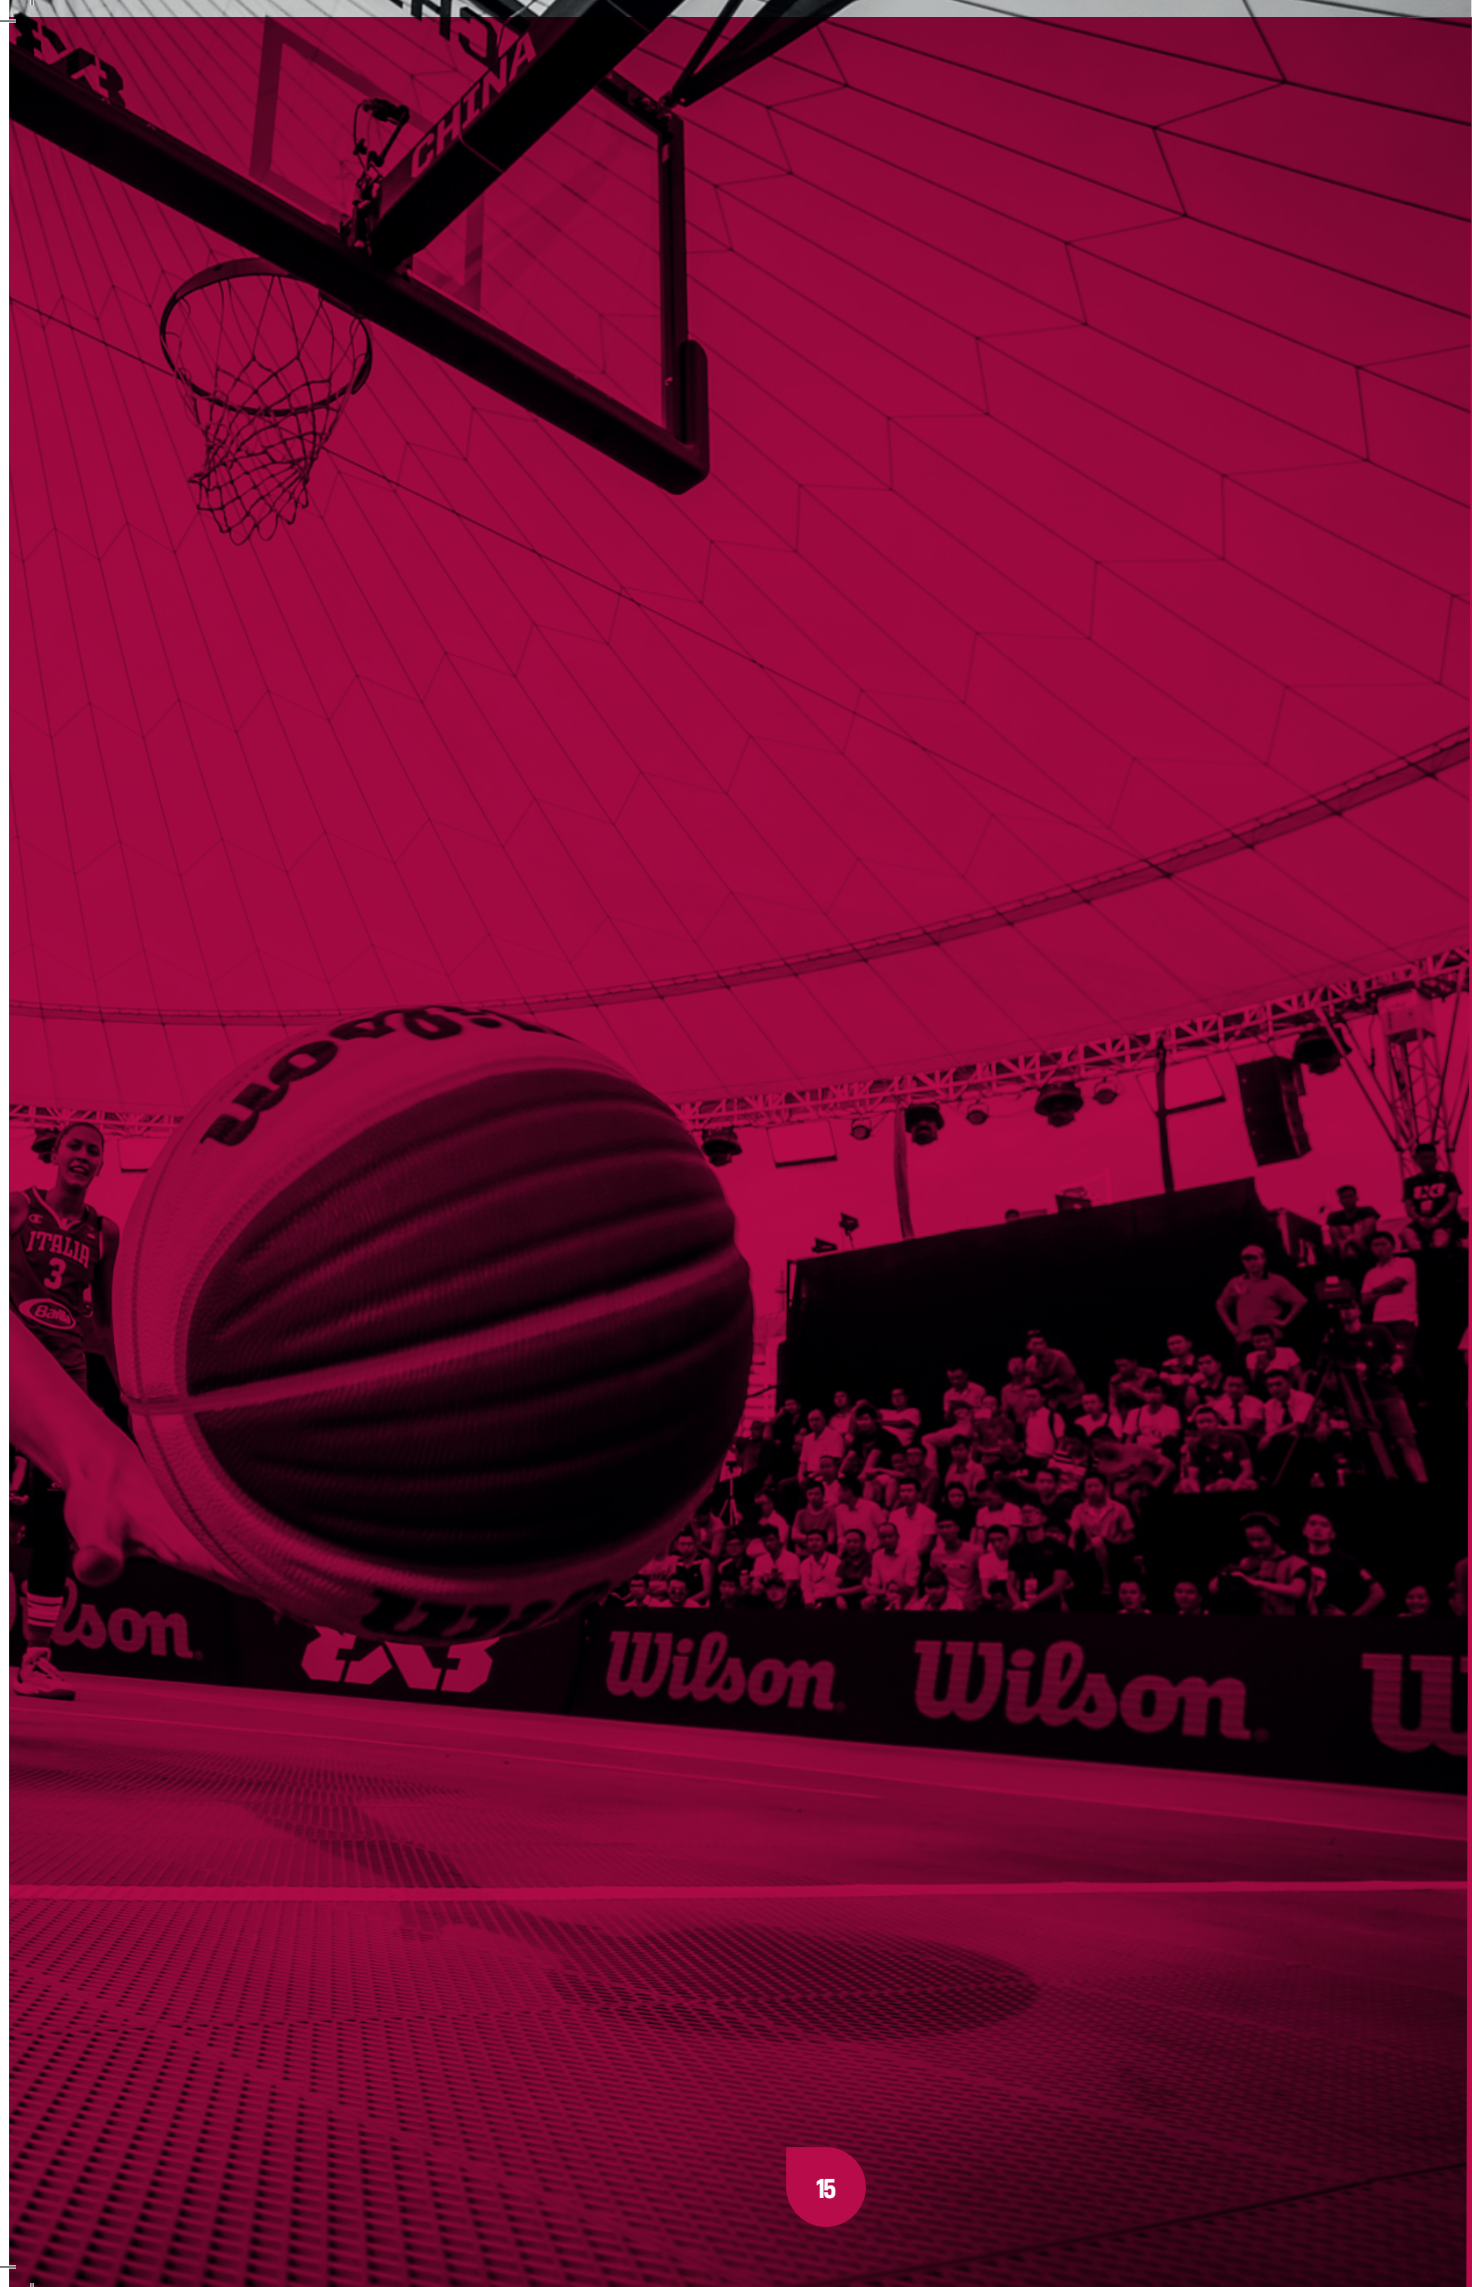

This strong statement is not something new in 3x3.

Every single national team competition has the exact same amount of men and women's teams and the two categories played on the same court on the same dates. What happens at the Olympics happens in every single national team competition: we alternate between men and women's games. Women are given the same platform, the same court, the same fans, the same coverage as the men.

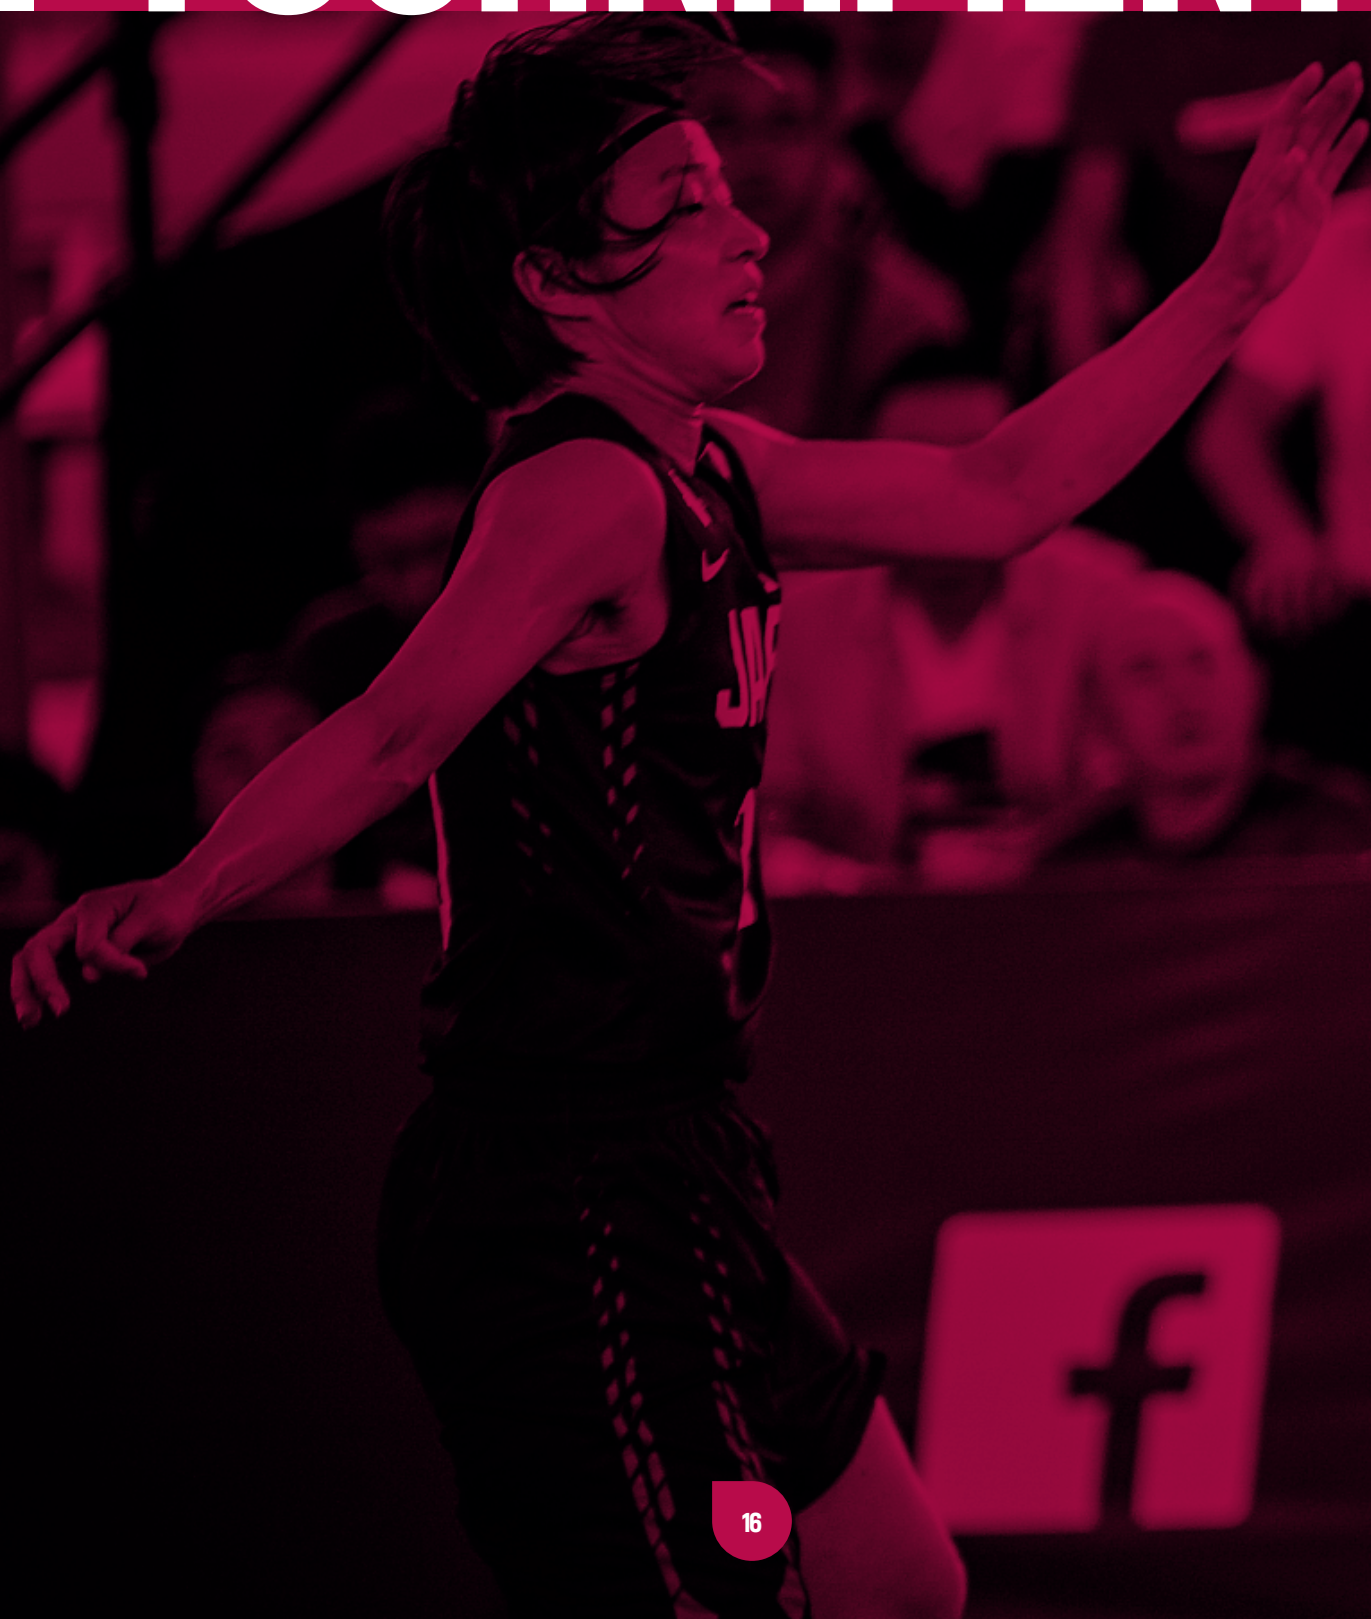

The women and men's 3x3 Olympic gold-medal games will be played back-to-back. Hence, we will even have a photo of the medalists of both categories together on the Olympic court included in the protocol after the games on July 28.

National federations can only participate in the FIBA 3x3 U23 Nations League if they register a team in both the men's and the women's categories.

Also, it is common for female referees to officiate men's games in 3x3. Cecilia Toth – who will officiate at the Tokyo Olympics – was one of the two referees in charge of the men's final of the FIBA 3x3 Europe Cup in 2019.

3x3 OLYMPIC TOURNAMENT

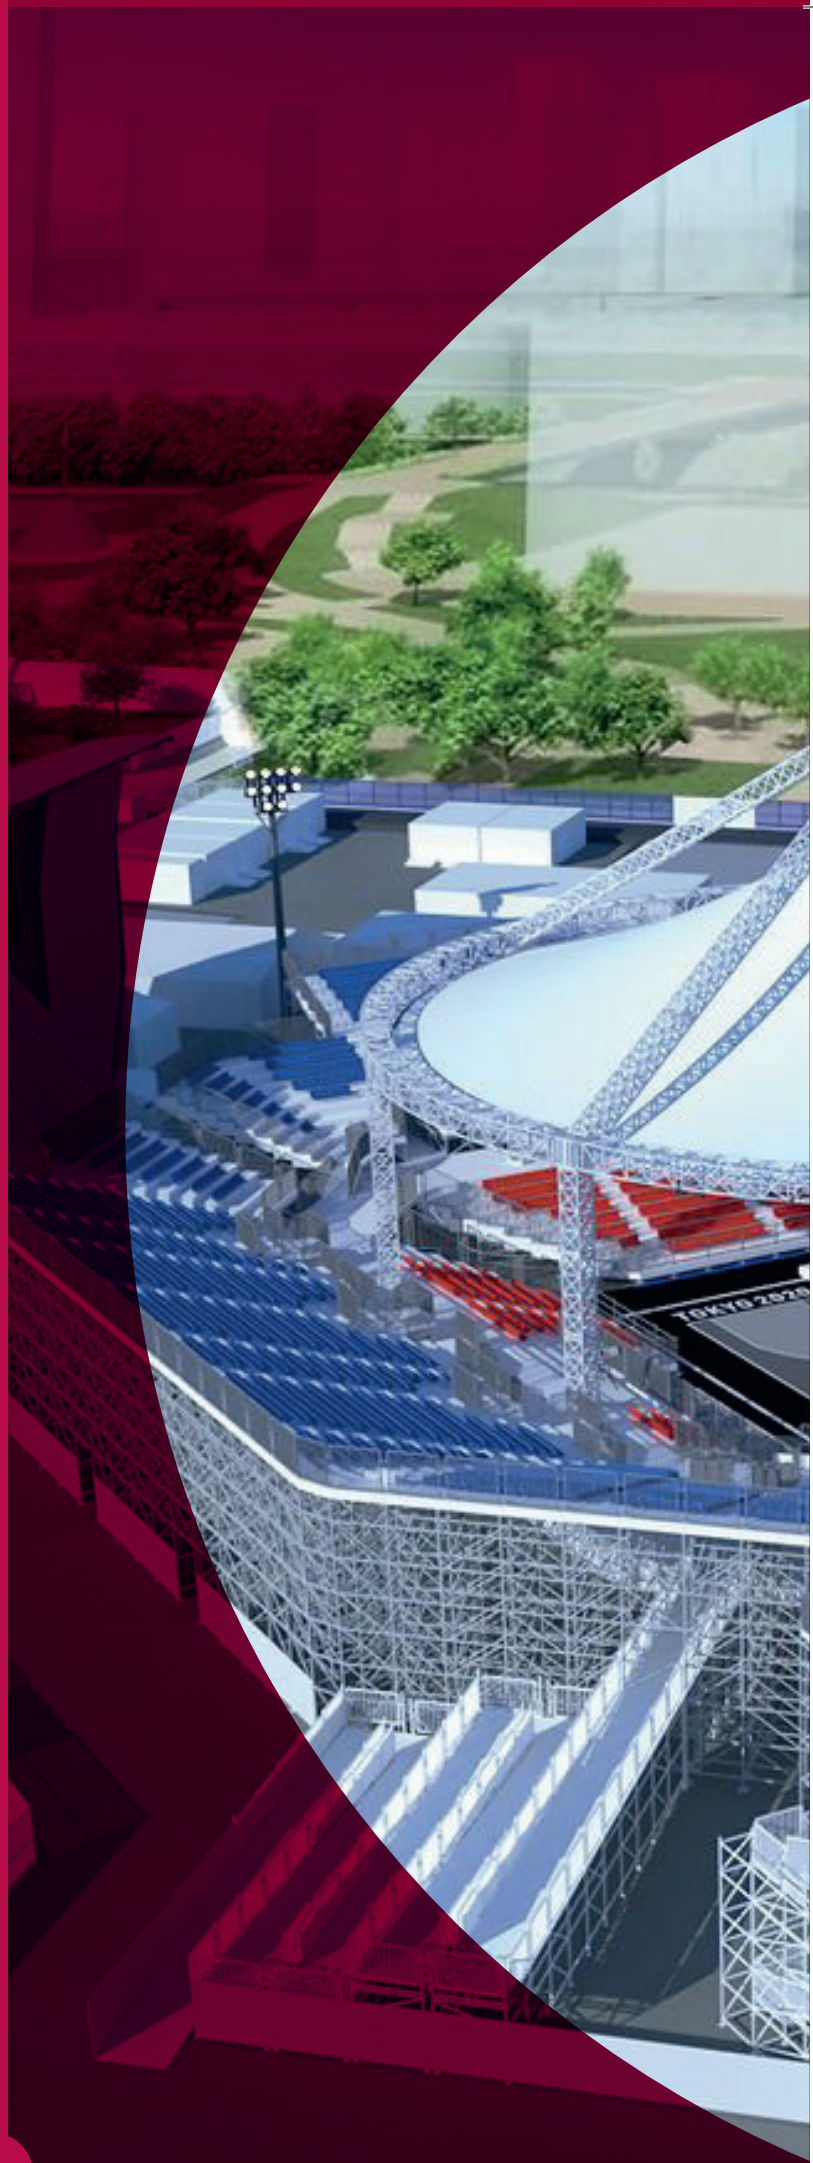

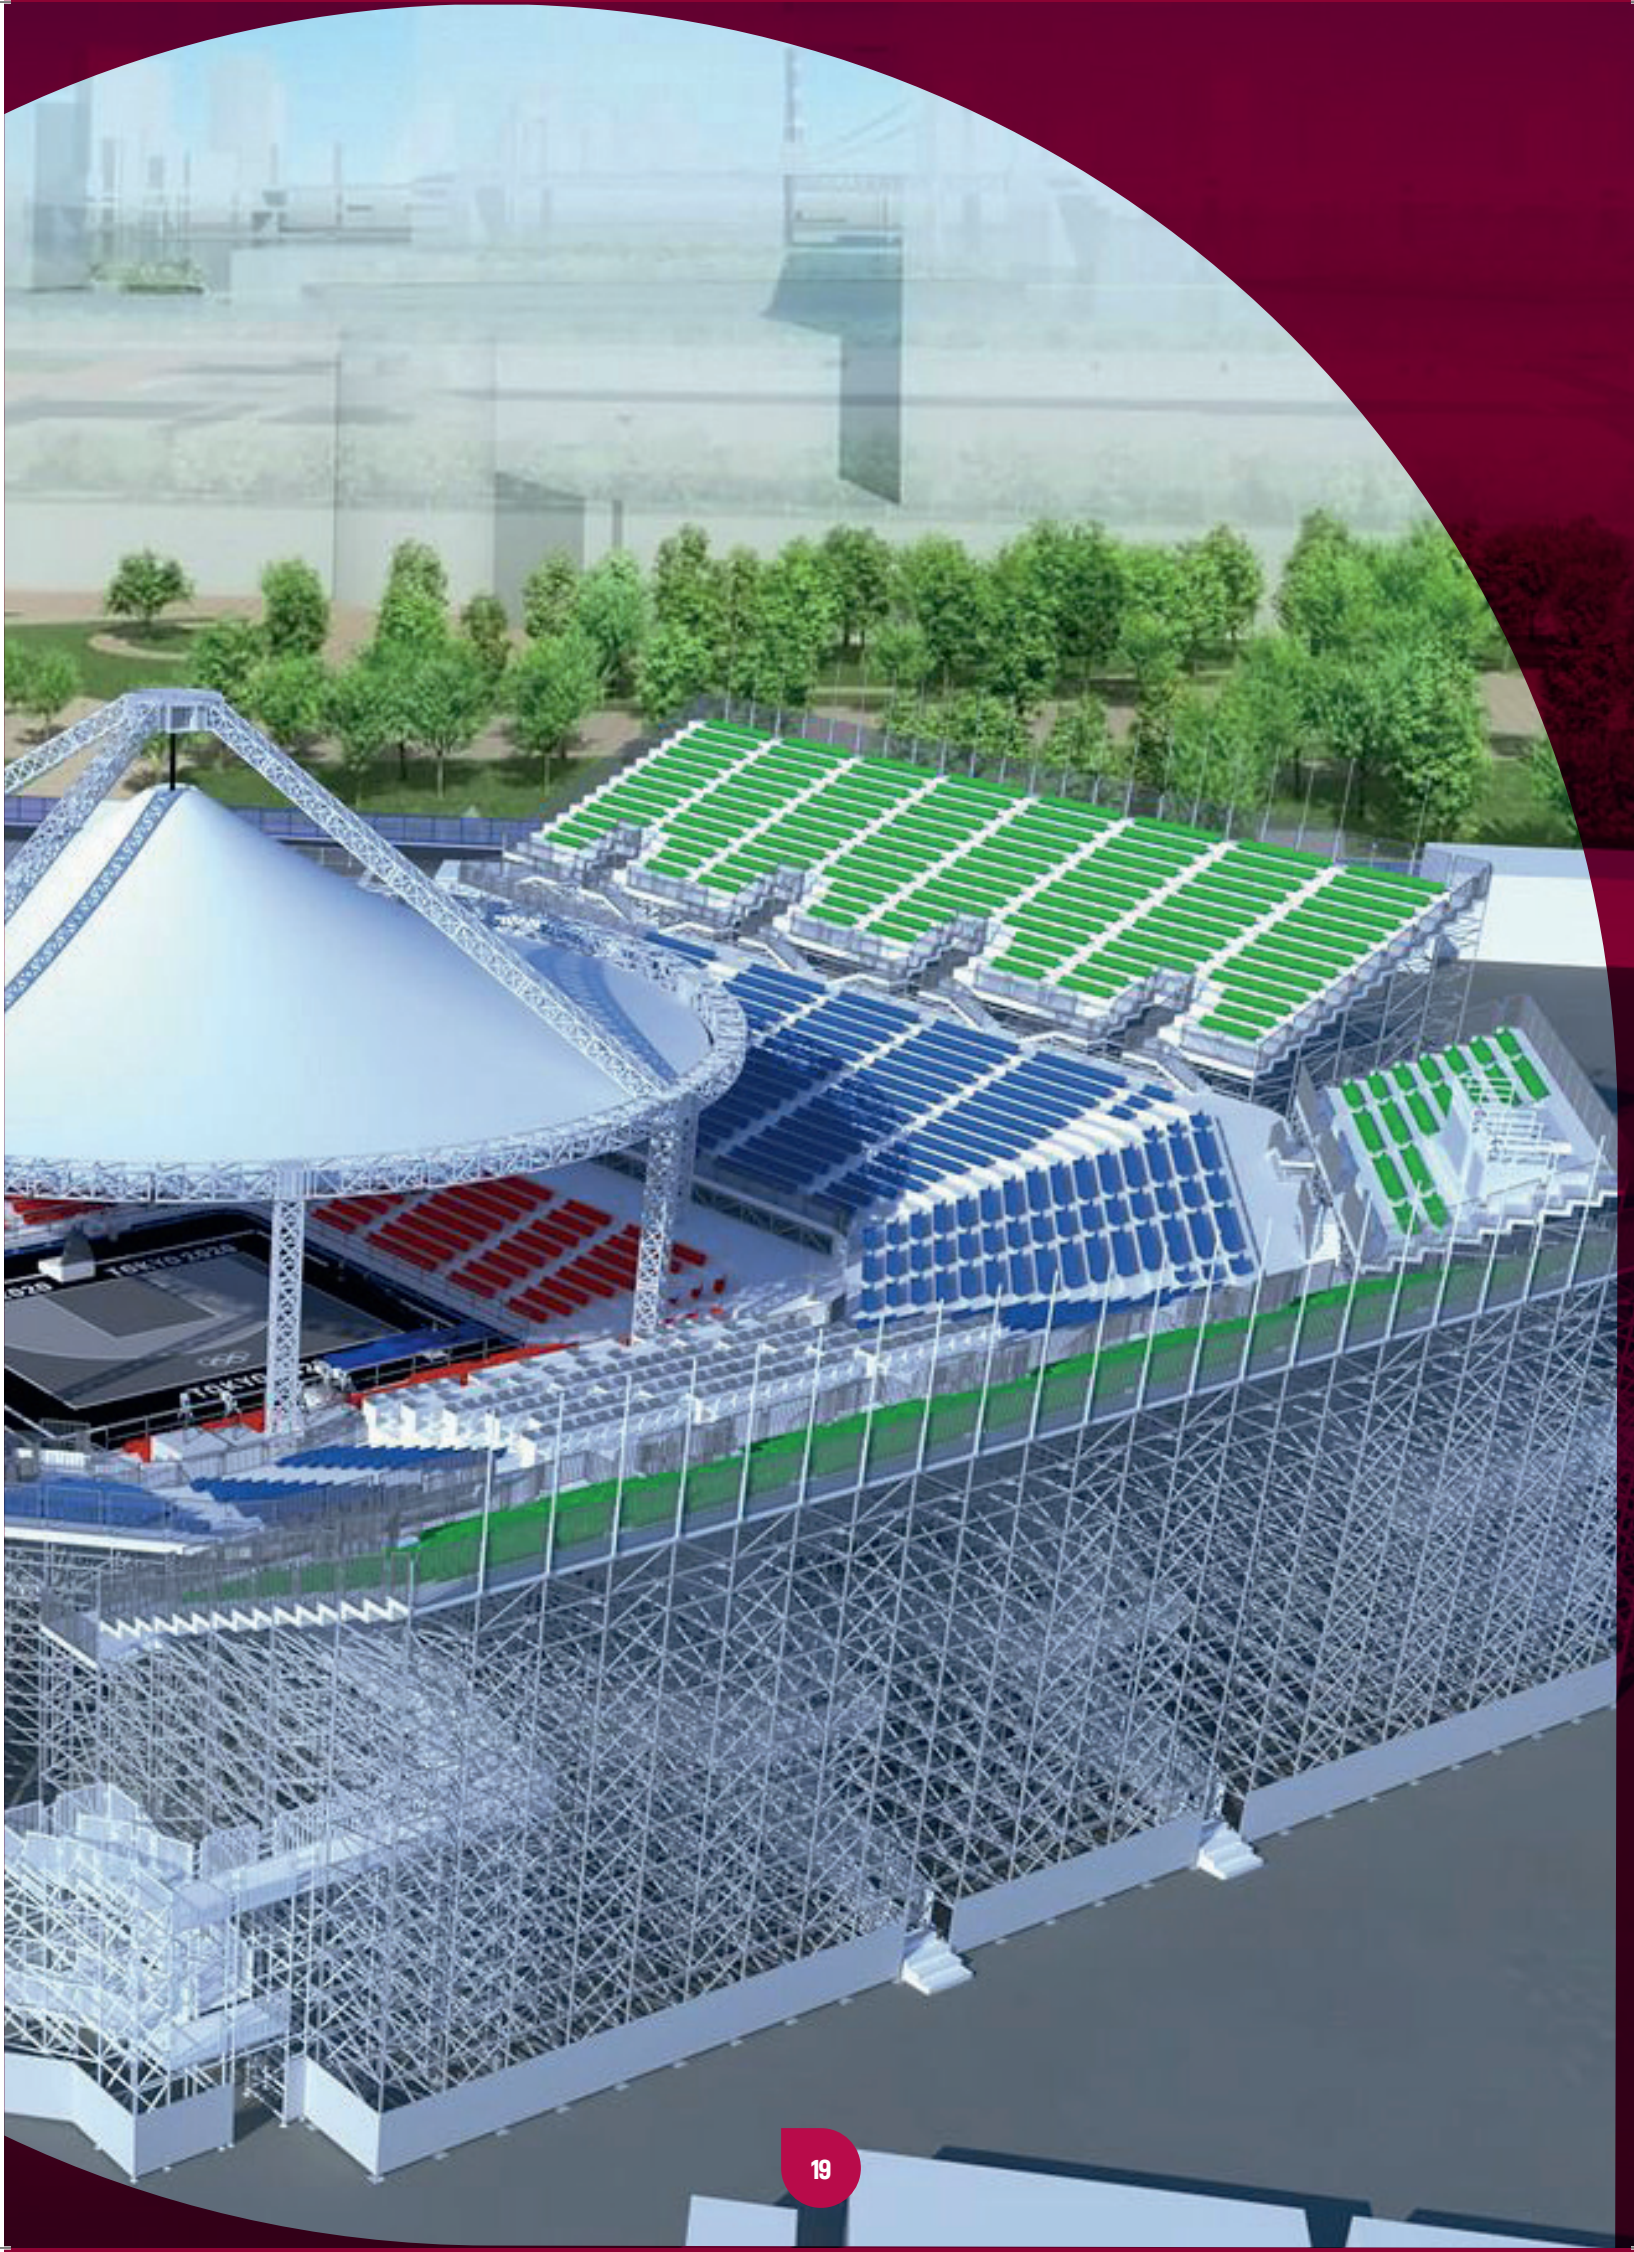

VENUE

The Aomi Urban Sports Park is a temporary venue in the waterfront Aomi district of Tokyo, and is also situated conveniently close to the Athletes' Village. With views across the iconic Tokyo Bay, this venue serves as a symbol of IOC's efforts to engage the youth of the world at the Tokyo 2020 Games. The venue is used for both 3x3 and sports climbing during the Olympics and for football 5-a-side during the Paralympics.

Fun fact: the 3x3 Olympic tournament is played on the exact same location where FIBA organized the first-ever FIBA 3x3 official competition in Japan. The FIBA 3x3 World Tour Tokyo Masters took place on July 20-21, 2013. More fun facts: a then-26-year-old Tomoya Ochiai led his Team Nagoya to second place at the event... Almost exactly 8 years later, he represents Japan in 3x3 at the Olympics.

The venue capacity was 7,100 seats, which would have made it the biggest-ever outdoor temporary venue in 3x3 history. The original plan was that not having a ticket wouldn't have meant missing out on Olympic action at the Playground. Adjacent to the Aomi Urban Sports Park, the space was supposed to include outdoor warm-up areas where visitors could watch 3x3 basketball players while they get ready. At the Playground, visitors would have also been invited to get sporty with casual pick-up game. All amazingly engaging concepts, which FIBA looks forward to implementing at the next opportunity.

HOW THE TEAMS QUALIFIED

There were 3 ways to qualify for the Tokyo Olympics:

- Via the FIBA 3x3 Federation Ranking (4 spots per gender)

FORMAT

KNOCKOUT ROUND 6 TEAMS

The event starts with all 8 teams (per gender) in one single pool and every team plays one other. It means that every team plays 2 pool games per day on Day 1, 2, 3 and the last pool game on Day 4).

The teams ranked 7th and 8th in the pool are eliminated. Those who finished 1st and 2nd are directly qualified for the semi-finals. Those who finished 3rd to 6th meet in 2 different "quarter-finals", which will take place at the end of Day 4.

Pool standings (and overall standings for places 5 to 8 where there are no classification games) are determined by the following 3x3 standings rules:

If teams are tied after the first step, refer to the next one – and so on.

1.

Most wins (or win ratio in case of unequal number of games in inter-pool comparison);

2.

Head-to-head confrontation (only taking win/loss into account and applies within a pool only);

3.

Most points scored on average (without considering winning scores of forfeits).

If teams are still tied after those three steps, the one(s) with the highest seeding win(s) the tie-breaker.

Day 5 is dedicated to the semi-finals and the medal games.
